Margaret Bock
Grandma A. Buehrer

When I grew up in Archbold, Ohio, living with my mother, Lydia Eock, brother Paul, sister Esther, Great Aunt Anna Buehrer, Aunt Sophia Buehrer, and Grandparents John N. and Anna Buehrer, I heard about Switzerland and dreamed of going there sometime to visit my grandmother's relatives. My grandfather, who added an "N" for a middle initial for identification, had come to the U.S. from Switzerland when he was almost 14 years old in 1872 with his parents, Michael Jr. and Anna Kutzli Buehrer, three sisters-Susanna, Anna and Ursula- and his grandfather Michael, Sr. Buehrer. There were no close relatives left in the homeland. On the other hand, my grandmother came from a family of 13 living children, of whom only three had come to the United States. She came in 1883, but went back to visit her family in 1910, a few months before her mother died. Money was scarce at this time, after rearing six children on the farm in Henry County, but sacrifices were made so that Grandma could have relief from "Heimweh" or homesickness.

In 1948 when my brother was working for the World Council of Churches as a journalist in Geneva, Switzerland, my mother, cousin Marie Buehrer, friend Cara Lou DeVries and I fulfilled my dream by traveling to Europe in the summer. In Switzerland, with Paul's help, we visited Grandma's relatives in Zurich, Basel, Lohn, Flurlingen, Lucerne, and other places. I struggled to converse in German, since most of them spoke no English, although I had heard the Swiss-German at home and had studied German two years at college. We saw the homes of both grandparents in Bibern and Opfertshofen and attended worship services in the church in the latter town. The feeling of belonging to these people was strong then, as we sought our "roots."

This feeling of kinship was revived the spring of 1981 when Brad Phillips, my son, my sister Esther Rice and I returned to our roots in Switzerland. This time Paul and his wife Eve Bock were in Heidelberg, Germany, but again helped to guide us to our relatives. The George Bruehlmann children, with whom we had visited in 1948, were now grown and had their own families. What a joy to be with them again and share our lives with each other. Since I have been working on genealogy for several years, I was able to give to some of the Swiss relatives a chart tracing our common ancestry back to around 1600's in several lines, with the help of Mormon records. Emil and Elia Bruehlmann are now working on listing all the descendants from our great grandparents.

I have gathered the information on the Buehrer Family because of the strong feeling I have that the family- present, past and future- is important. Rev. James D. Buehrer of Washington, D.C. wrote a book on Buehrer history in 1916 with some help from Great Anna Buehrer, among others. Aunt Sophia Buehrer Ziegler updated that book in 1950. With the advent of microfilm, additional information on our ancestry has been made available for me to add to the previous records. It is my hope that in future years, additional information will be added to keep families informed about each other.

In my research of the Buehrer name, the earliest records spelled the name "Beurer." There is a town in Germany called Beuren, which could possibly be the origin of our name. Beurer would indicate an inhabitant of Beuren. This town is only 3 miles from Bibern or Opferts-hofen where our grandparents lived. In Switzerland the name is now spelled "Bührer", but in the United States it had been changed to Buehrer to approximate the sound of the umlaut.

Opfertshofen, the birthplace of Grandpa John N. Buehrer, is the location of the church for the neighboring towns of Altdorf, Bibern, and Hofen. Since the mother church had been in Lohn before 1867, many of the church records list Lohn as their place of christening, although they may have lived in any of the other nearby towns. In 1798 in Opfertshofen there were 19 homes with 31 men and 72 women and children. The population has dropped from 203 in 1860 to 121 in 1970. There isn't as much employment there anymore, so people work in or move to nearby towns. Opfertshoven is about 100 meters higher than Bibern, our Grandma Anna Buehrer's home town, which lies in the valley of the Eiber River. As we stood back of the church we could see Hofen and Bibern in the distance.

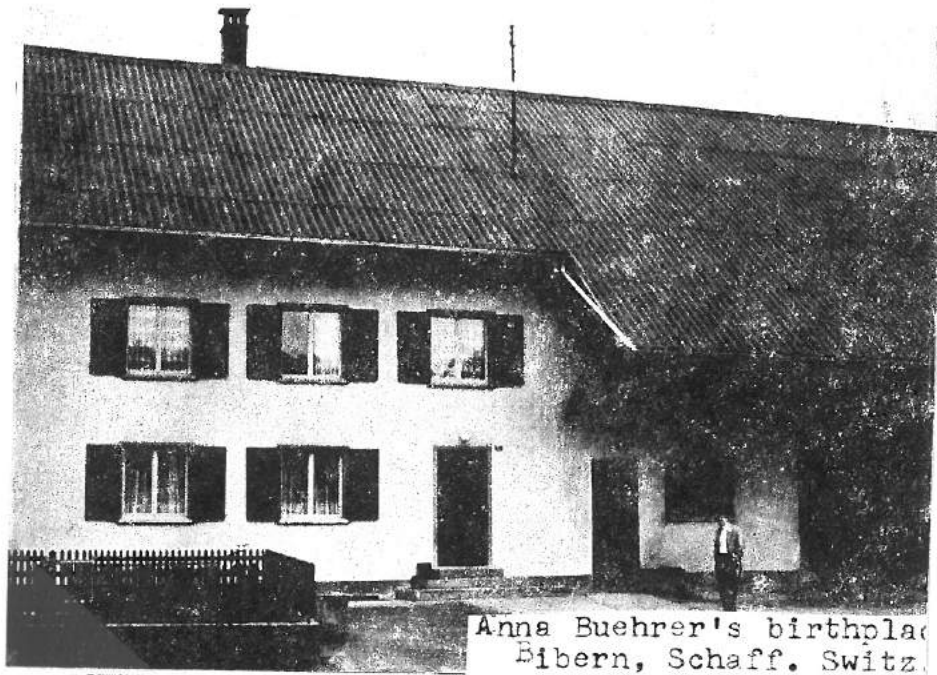

Bibern used to be a farmers' village. In 1920 there were 23 farmers, but in 1974 there were only 12. Concerning the earlier history of this town, Bibern belonged to the Cloister Paradies in 1300. The common people, or serfs, belonged to the cloisters and were ruled by abbots. Since these landlords could not inflict capital punishment, however, an "advocatus"- "vogt" attended to the temporal affairs of the abbey.

Several centuries later, in the 1600's and 1700's, the word "vogt" was printed by the names of some of our grandfathers in the church records. I translated it as bailiff, but it's origin probably came from feudal times.

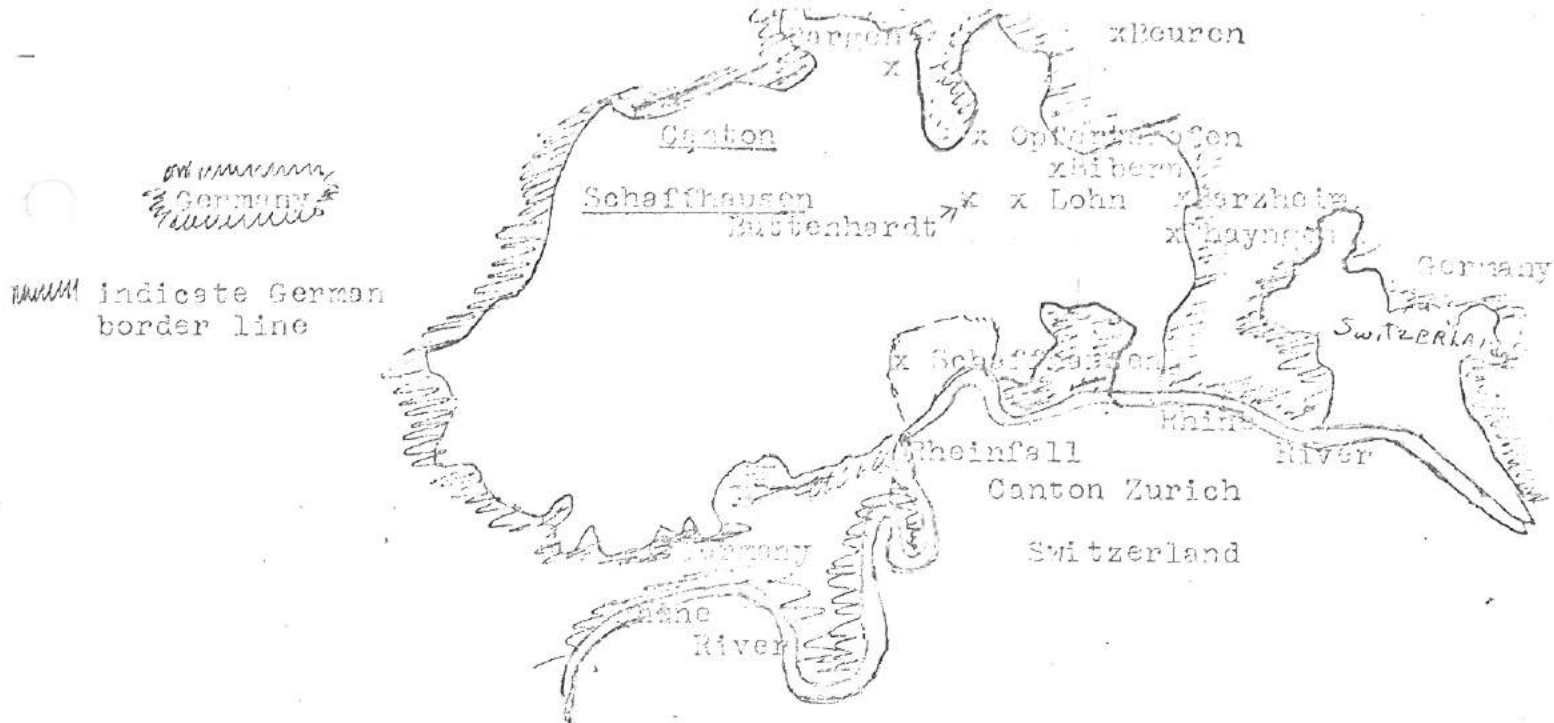

Also in the records you will notice that I have underlined Buehrer for my grandmother's name which indicates that the maiden name is the same as the married name. We have at least five grandmothers with the name of Buehrer, making it easier to trace their ancestry when I had a microfilm listing Buehrers.

Bibern seems to be more progressive than Opfershofen, since it increased in population to 250 in 1979 from 187 one hundred years earlier. About 25 new homes and a Central School for the surrounding towns have been built near Bibern, which is only 10 minutes driving time from the city of Schaffhausen. Many go to Thayngen also to work in Knorr Industries. Our cousin Martha Bruehlmann's husband-Nicklaus Steinemann works at Knorr. They also have a small orchard of apples and cherries up the hill from their home in Bibern.

All these facts and figures about the country of Switzerland do not convey in any way the indescribable, marvelous warm feeling we received from visiting our second cousins during our visit in 1981. I hope that you can enjoy the same experience sometime when you seek your "roots."

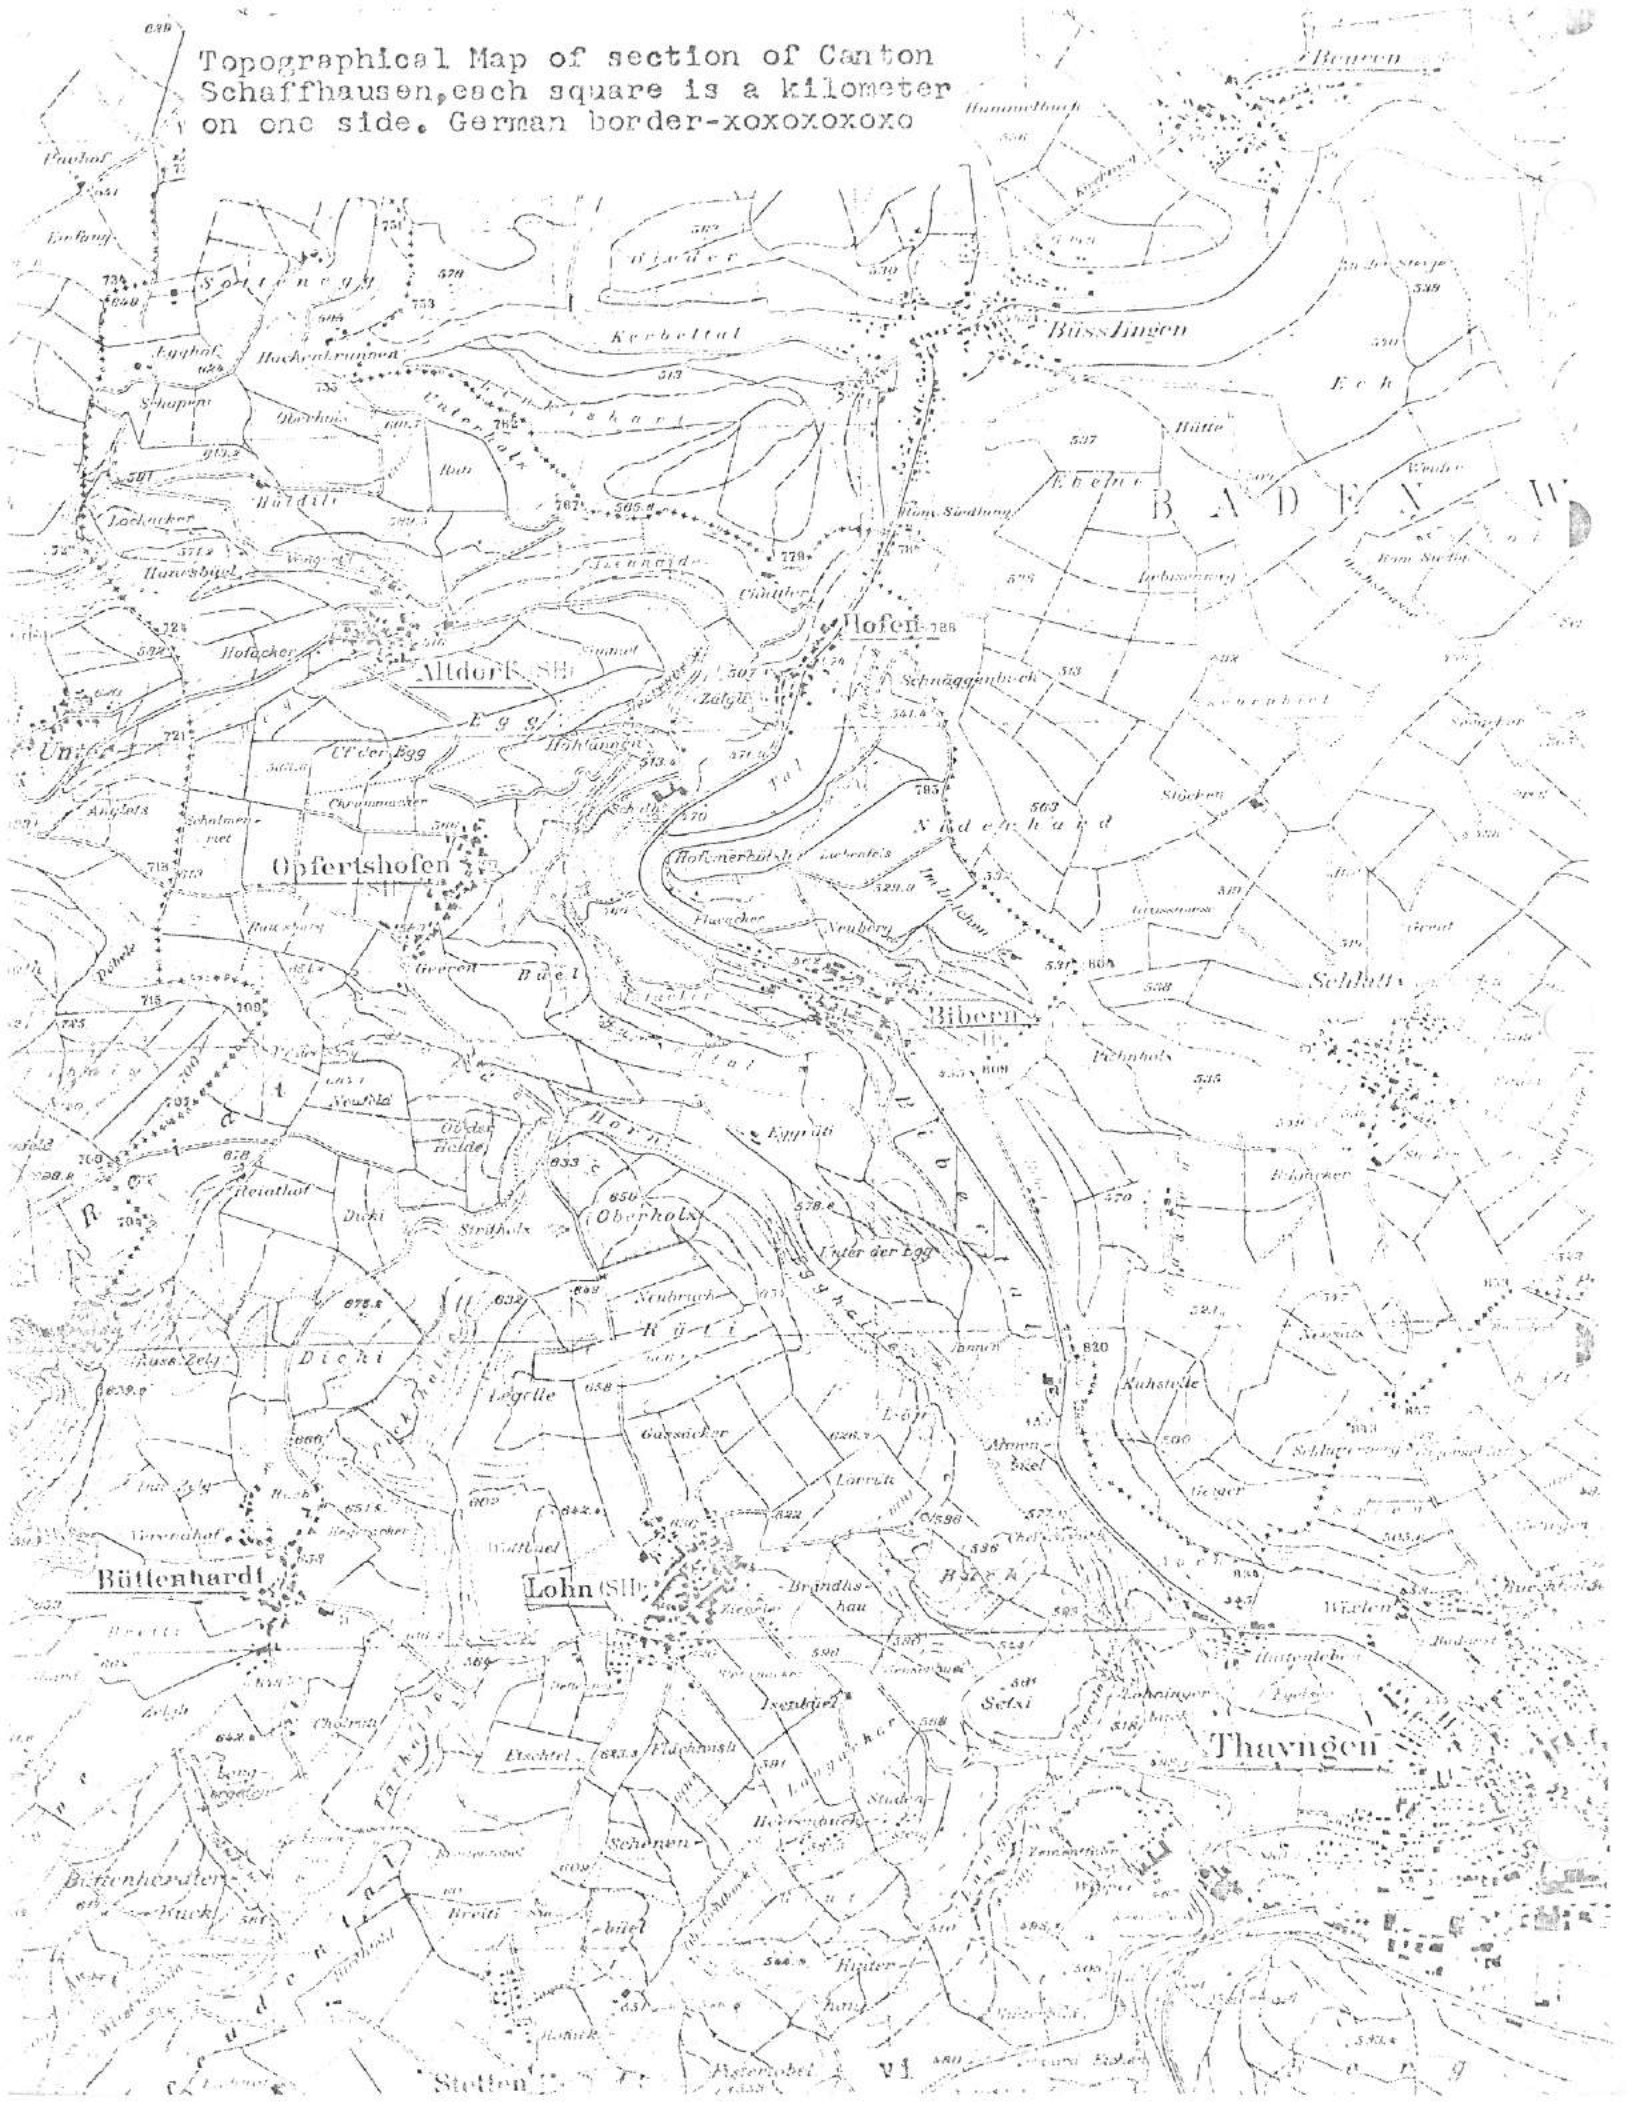

Anna Buehrer's birthplace
Bibern, Schaff. Switz.

The Canton, or state of Schaffhausen in Switzerland is significant to us as the birthplace of both of our grandparents. Carl Britsch, in his book summarized the history of this canton. "Looking at the map, one wonders how the Canton of Schaffhausen happens to be in Switzerland at all, since it lies across the Rhine, surrounded by German territory. But the facts are these: about the middle of the Fifteenth Century, Schaffhausen being then an imperial city, entered into treaty relations with the Swiss Confederates. Not long after, the latter rescued it from the clutches of the friends of Hapsburg-Austria. In 1501, just after the so-called Swabian War, it was admitted, along with Basel, to full membership in the Confederation. Ever since, Schaffhausen has been Swiss-partly by habit, partly by the courtesy of the European powers."

During World WarII some of the American pilots misjudged the border between the two countries and shot at Lohn, where our Bruehlmann cousins live. When we visited them in 1948, they show us the bullet hole in their window. Schaffhausen, with only 115 square miles, and 72,000 population, has no high mountains and is a farming area with 95% of the area considered as "productive".

This book has been divided into three sections plus the Preface and Index. The first section includes the Ancestor Chart J for John N. Buehrer and the family group sheets for his ancestors. The numbers before the names on the family group sheets refer to the numbers on the Ancestor Chart. For example, Stephen Buehrer is No. 8, and his second wife, Barbara Bruestsch, is No. 9. I did not give a number to Anna Steinemann, his first wife, because she was not the mother of our ancestor, Michael Buehrer, Sr. I have put an X before the child on the family group sheet who is our ancestor.

The second part of the book includes Anna's Ancestor Chart A and the family group sheets of her ancestors. A larger chart, for those who paid for it, is also included to show the earlier ancestors. The numbering is the same as the Ancestor Chart A. I have been able to trace more of her ancestors along the various lines, mainly because there were more grandmothers whose maiden names were Buehrer.

The third section includes the family group sheets of the descendants of John N. and Anna Buehrer, and also a family relationship chart. I have started with the oldest child of John and Anna Buehrer, traced his descendants, proceeded to the next child, and so on.

After the Index are listed the known addresses of the descendants. Additional addresses and information will be welcomed to add to the present edition.
